DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 13-26,27,28, and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In regard to claims 13-26, the claims merely recite computer code which is not patentable. In regard to claim 27, the preamble recites a system but the system only comprises "logic for" which is computer code. In regard to claim 28, the preamble recites a system but the system only comprises "means for" which could be computer code. In regard to claim 30, the claim is a single means claim and claims a data structure which is not patentable. The claims are indefinite because it is not clear whether they are system or method claims since they only recite computer processing.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

3. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

4. Claims 1-12,13-26,27,29, and 30-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The claimed invention in claims 1-12,13-26,27,29, and 30 are directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claims 1-12,13-26,27,29, and 30-31 fall into this category because they merely recite associating a session object in a computer program.

The features of the invention that would render the claimed subject matter statutory if recited in the claim is to include speech input to the system and how it is measured and converted to the desired data. This would place the claims into a so-called "safe harbor" by requiring a physical act outside a computer (the physical input of speech and subsequent change of physical attributes thereof).

Another option would be to add limitations which indicate the practical use of the resultant data in an overall system.
